Parent Information

For the week of

2.28.22 – 3.4.22

Jaguar Community,

I hope you all enjoyed the 4 day Rodeo Weekend. We had a busy but fast 3 days here on campus. Students were amazingly spirited as they dressed accordingly. Campus was so much fun. Check out our social media for the great pictures @Valencia_Jags. Students finished out the week strong academically.

WE only have 9 more days in this quarter left. Students are also filling out course selections for next year. Please check your child's StudentVue or access ParentVue. Students should not have any tardies. There are plenty of announcements and people out ensuring they are in class. We need your help as students are receiving lunch detention and consequences but the more support the better.

Grades are also available to be checked. Students should look at their assignments. If your child is an 8th grader please make sure you are checking because students should not have any F's so they are promoted to high school. I was in all classes last week. Teachers were updating grades, giving missing assignments, teaching new assignments, and working hard for your children. Students need to make sure they are completing the assignments. EVERY day after school is tutoring so we are available to support anyone who needs the time to get work done.

We are headed into the last quarter of the year, parents we need your help. Please stay active by checking all your children's social media accounts. In middle school children are fearless. They think they are invincible and that their actions do not have consequences. We are seeing social media be a place where students are bullying, being the bully, or doing impulsive things that they come to regret. Much of this is happening late at night or during the weekend. On campus we have discussed this at length, but students need to hear those messages constantly as social media is so accessible. Our children are feeling the negativity and thinking bad behavior is okay, it is not.

Thank you all as we are great partners in working together to support your child through middle school.
